ENEMY LOSSES RUN HIGH IN MIDWAY FIGHT

Battle Started as 2 Fleets of Warships and Transports Neared Island.

By CLARK LEE
A P War Correspondent

GENERAL EMMONS' HEADQUARTERS, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, JUNE 11—Part of the story of the battle of Midway was told today by American pilots who with navy and marine fliers smashed Admiral Yamamoto's fleet and saved the Hawaiian Islands from invasion.

It is a story of cool courage and unflinching determination of the untold number of American men and machines.

In a battle of air and sea, the Americans who are working and sacrificing to produce the tools for the war machine.

American boys fought until they were dizzy for lack of sleep, and kept fighting. Planes did things they never were built to do and stood the test.

Too many—although the total number was not large—Americans died. But in dying they took enemies down in flames with them.

This part of the story is that of the army's land-based, aircraft, and for them the battle started the afternoon of June 3 when they got in the first punch.

Two huge Japanese fleets were approaching Midway, transports from the west and the battle fleet from another direction.

General Willis H. Hale of Colorado Springs, commander of the Hawaiian bombardment command, said how Americans got in the first decisive blow.

First Attack June 3

Army bombers made their first contact with the enemy far to the west of Midway the afternoon of June 3. Bombs, dropped in a medium altitude attack, hit and damaged one cruiser or battleship which was left in flames, as were also one transport and one destroyer.

The following morning army planes took off anti-aircraft enemy planes from the second Japanese fleet—which was much closer than the force bombed the previous afternoon. Marine fliers also were in the air when the enemy arrived.

Twenty minutes later, marine dive bombers swarmed down on Japanese ships, adding further destruction. Navy dive bombers and torpedo planes also attacked about the same time, but the details have not been released.

At 3:30 a. m. army heavy bombers—Flying Fortresses—attacked the Japanese battle fleet from a high altitude, hitting one carrier (possibly the army bombers also damaged other vessels. All reports are not in.)

Fliers Call Midway Battle

Better Than World Series

By CLARK LEE

AP War Correspondent

GENERAL EMMONS' HEADQUARTERS, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, June 11—A "better" than the World Series was the way crew members of one of the army's big B-17 bombers described the battle of Midway.

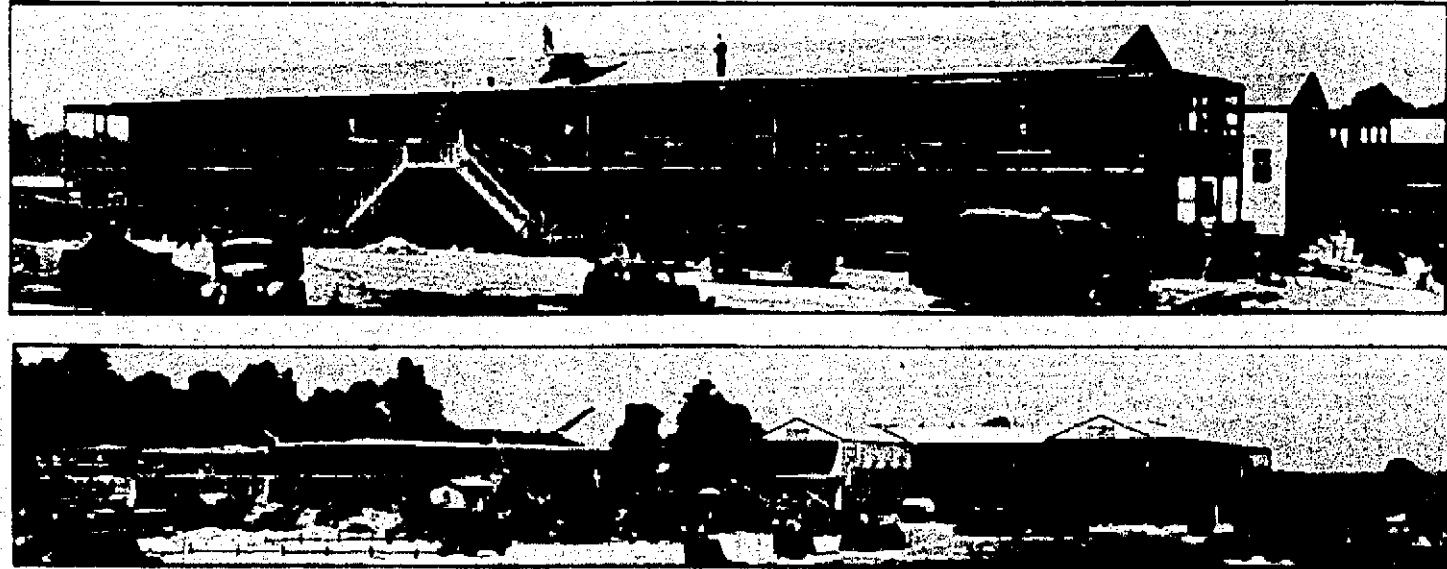

Pilot Captain Charles E. Gregory of Houston nudged his cockpit and fellow Texan, Lieut. Robert O. Pace of Dallas, the first time they saw anti-aircraft shells coming up at them.

"We felt so good to be in action," the captain recalled to day, "that we just laughed at the shells."

That's the way the whole crew felt. From bombardier Lieut. Henry H. Fitts of Macon, Ga., who sat in the nose and saw his bombs hit a Japanese aircraft carrier, to tail gunner Corp. Melvin E. Lomas of Wichita, Kan., who during the fight

NAZIS CLAIM ANCHOR TAKEN

But Defenders Say German Attacks on Bir Hacheim Are Beaten Off.

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's high command asserted today that Axis troops had captured Bir Hacheim, southern anchor of the 50-mile British defense line in North Africa.

While British headquarters declared that Free French defenders had beaten off a new series of assaults on the key outpost.

The Nazi communiqué said: "The Fort of Bir Hacheim, southern pillar of the British defensive system, was this morning taken by storm after several days of bitter resistance by strong enemy units encircled there."

The Free French commander of the garrison had previously rejected six Axis demands for surrender.

Confirmation of the German claim was lacking elsewhere and like past Nazi claims may be premature. London military quarters said they had no information to substantiate the German report.

Nazis Repulsed Yesterday

British general headquarters said British armored and motorized forces, supported by RAF planes, aided the Free French in repulsing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's furious tank assaults on Bir Hacheim all day yesterday.

The German claim, if true, apparently would mean that the British flank had been placed in considerable danger and might mean a rearrangement of the whole British front.

British military circles, conceding the possibility that Bir Hacheim had fallen, said the immediate effect would be to relieve Marshal Rommel's supply difficulties around the British left flank.

These quarters said the position was not regarded as vital to the British campaign, whose main goal is to destroy the Axis armored forces.

The above photographs, approved by the war department for publication, show some of the local ordnance plant buildings to provide housing for workers. The huge H-shaped buildings will house approximately 300 workers each. Some of the space in these buildings will be used at first for offices of construction companies and later made available for workers who will operate the plant. These buildings are all being prepared for use by the U. S. Rubber Co., which will operate the plant for the war department.

10 Army Jeeps To Add Color To Marion Flag Day Parade

Fleet from Fort Hayes To Join Marchers, Sell Defense Bonds Along Line of March.

A fleet of 10 jeeps, the army's mascot cars, will be in Marion Sunday, manned by drivers from the quartermaster corps at Fort Hayes in Columbus to participate in the Allied Victory parade and public demonstration of determination to win the war.

Under supervision of Col. Louis B. Wilson of the Fifth Corps Area headquarters in Columbus, the jeep caravan is visiting 17 Ohio cities to stimulate war bond sales and give civilians a chance for "close-ups" of the car which is performing incredible feats on the battlefields of Europe and the Far East.

Fortunately, the caravan was scheduled into Marion for Sunday and will arrive here in time to take part in the Allied Victory parade, which Marion's business men and the Marion County War Savings staff are sponsoring.

The jeeps will travel up and down the line of march, offering stamps for sale and bond pledges to the onlookers.

Pledge of a $25 bond will entitle the buyer to a ride in a jeep. "Buy a bond and ride in a jeep" will be the caravan's slogan.

Due at 2 p. m.

The caravan is scheduled to arrive in Marion from Canton at 2 p. m., accompanied by Major Charles S. Robinson, public relations officer from the Fifth Corps Area headquarters at Fort Hayes.

Robert J. Mason, general chairman of the parade, said the caravan would be kept busy throughout the afternoon and that it might be possible to send some of the jeeps into Marion county towns in the interest of promoting the sale of stamps and bonds.

With each purchase of a war stamp, the buyer will receive a special souvenir jeep stamp book, which tells the story of the jeep and of its performance on battlefields throughout the war.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has offered its services in furnishing sales people for the jeeps.

The personnel of the caravan will broadcast a program from 2 to 2:30 p. m. from Station WMBN. After the program the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be in charge of the caravan's schedule.

In connection with the Sunday demonstration, Mr. Mason said that Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the Marion County War Savings staff, will be in the parade float, with Louis J. Mendenhall, secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, as his aide.

Bonds Continue

The Ladies and Gentlemen's Club and the Marion County War Savings staff have arranged for a bond drive to be held in the city during the parade.

MARION HOLDS RAID PRACTICE

Doctors, Nurses, Police and Firemen Join Air Wardens in Covering City.

Doctors, nurses, aids and both regular and auxiliary firemen and police cooperated with local air raid wardens in conducting a citywide canvas for blackout information in connection with a practice air raid mobilization last night.

Six air bombs, factory whistles, church and school bells and a siren sounded the alert signal at 8:55 p. m. The practice alarm was previously announced for some time between 7:30 and 10 p. m.

An estimated 65 to 70 per cent of the wardens turned out last night. Reports from two wards and partial reports from the other four were turned in to civilian defense officials.

Air Raid Suggestions

Wardens offered those questioned three options to be used in the event of a real blackout or a real night raid. They were:

Total blackout of an entire house.

Preparation of a room so that a light, which does not show from the outside, may be burned.

The use of a flashlight with the ray turned down.

Eighty-four per cent of those contacted reported that they expected to put out all lights. Seven per cent said they now have or expect soon to have a room which may be kept lighted without the light being visible from the outside. Nine per cent said they expected to do nothing.

First Report

Ward three, with John Brokaw as leader, was the first ward to make a complete report. The ward reported at 10:15 p. m. Because Mr. Brokaw was at work, Mrs. Brokaw acted as ward leader.

The first precinct to report completely was 2-B at 9:28 p. m. Reports were still being made this morning. The sum of most of these comments seemed to be that of approval that some thoughtful effort was being made to prepare for any emergency.

The main fault, as found with the practice raid, officials agreed, was that of the air raid

$137,000 Latest Ordnance Plant Week's Payroll

Increased employment of workers at the new Ordnance Plant in Marion, Ohio, is reflected in the latest weekly payroll of $137,000.

The payroll for the week ending June 7, 1942, was the highest yet recorded for the plant, which is now in its second year of operation.

The plant, which is owned and operated by the U. S. Rubber Co., is one of the largest in the world, and is producing war materiel for the United States and its allies.

STATE OKAYS PLANS TO HAUL WAR WORKERS

Transit Co. Gets Permit; Factories Study Worker Transportation Problem.

State approval has been granted the Marion Rapid Transit Co. for operation of bus service between the city and the Scioto Ordnance Plant and the Marion War Aid Depot.

Ray Maag, president of the company, said today the permit will enable him to start operations June 15, although actual use of buses may be started somewhat later than that, depending on the demand.

The state utilities commission granted the company a blanket permit to serve the two war projects, and the permit will cover additional vehicles as they are added. He previously said approximately 25 huge buses having a standing-room capacity of 100 persons each probably will be required to supplement the private automobiles that will be used.

Bus to Be in Parade

The bus that arrived early this week has been painted and repaired and will be ready for use in the Sunday Flag Day parade. Other buses will arrive later, another being scheduled to come next week.

Meanwhile, representatives of Marion industries held a conference yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce office to begin a study of transportation problems likely to develop among their employees under possible gasoline rationing and further fire restrictions. One of the principal problems discussed was the hauling of workers from nearby towns to Marion factories.

Mr. Maag, at that meeting, indicated the Marion Rapid Transit Co. had no plans at present to try to provide transportation service between Marion and nearby towns for war workers.

To Make Study

The conference ended with representatives of large industries agreeing to study the transportation problem outlook among their own workers and to assemble again in July to further consider the problem.

One possible solution discussed was for Marion workers in any community near Marion to arrange a cooperative transportation plan. Under this plan, Richmond men working in Marion shops, for example, might arrange for a school bus and driver to make regular trips to and from Marion.

DECISION REVEALS VISIT OF MOLOTOV WITH ROOSEVELT

By The Associated Press

The United States, Great Britain and Russia were officially disclosed today to have reached a "full understanding" on "the urgent task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

A White House announcement, issued simultaneously with a British statement in London, said President Roosevelt and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov had reached agreement regarding the problem of launching a mighty offensive against Germany.

It did not state specifically, however, when or if the three powers had decided to open a second front—merely emphasizing the "urgent task" of creating a new front.

Roosevelt, Molotov Reach Agreement

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 11—President Roosevelt and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, the White House announced today, have reached a "full understanding" in conversations in Washington "with regard to the urgent task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

The White House, in a formal statement disclosing that Molotov had visited this country, gave no additional details on a second front. Nor did the statement say whether the agreement was to open such a front or not to do so.

Another "momentous" development announced today in London, was that Russia and Britain had signed a 20-year mutual assistance treaty.

The American president and the Russian commissar, the White House said, also attained a "unity" of views on two other vital questions pertaining to their war efforts:

"Measures for increasing and speeding up the supplies of planes, tanks and other kinds of war materials" from the United States to Russia; and the "fundamental problems of cooperation of the Soviet Union and the United States in safeguarding peace and security; to the freedom loving people after the war."

"Both sides state with satisfaction," the statement declared, "the unity of their views on all these questions."

Molotov, bespectacled, 52-year-old right-hand man of Premier Joseph Stalin, arrived in Washington on May 29 and left on June 4. He now is safely back home, the White House said.

The statement released today was approved by both Molotov and Mr. Roosevelt and withheld until the former had returned. The discussions entered into while the foreign commissar was a secret guest at the White House apparently ranged over the whole field of military and economic problems of mutual concern to the two nations.

Stamps to Be Issued

Mr. Roosevelt, at his residence, after dinner, today issued a statement that the stamps to be issued by the United States for the 20-year mutual assistance treaty with Russia would be issued in the near future.

The stamps, which will be issued in the near future, will be used to pay for the supplies of war materials that the United States will furnish to Russia under the terms of the treaty.

FLAGS MAY BE CLEANED

Question Answered by Marion
Authority on Subject.

It is not unpractical to wash or dry clean a flag, according to information received from Paul D. Reynolds of 275 South State street, patriotic instructor for Post 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars, who has made a hobby of collecting reliable information concerning national emblems.

The question as to the propriety of cleaning soiled flags was raised in a letter to The Star signed "A Reader," and Mr. Reynolds, who has become an authority through extensive research, was consulted.

He based his answer on the fact that all information collected by him from various archives approves this procedure. He also stated that the correct method of destroying a flag is to burn it.

Marion Canteen Workers Praised by Naval Officer

The staff of Marion's Union canteen received more praise today in an official letter from the naval commandant at the naval armory in Chicago.

W. R. Wortley, commanding officer, wrote as follows to Mayor C. C. Snare:

"Upon the return of the escort of 130 enlisted men who went to Marion, Ohio on Saturday, June 10, 1942, I was informed of the hospitality of the canteen service of your city. All of Us Feel Better

With the approval of Admiral Kink, who admits the navy, itself, must do the same thing, the admiral's countrymen are piecing together a picture of events in the Pacific.

First, the admiral seems to be feeling confident. Since he has access to more information than they have, this is encouraging to the audience spectators.

Second, in their last two claims the termination of firing found the Japanese going back in the direction from which they came and the Americans chasing them as far as feasible in that direction. Regardless of who claims victory, the circumstantial evidence of retreat can't be shrugged off. Germany claimed victory in the momentous battle of Jutland in World War I and backed up the claim in a most convincing manner, but when the battle was over the German fleet sailed back home and was seen no more. It dared not fight again.

Three, in the battles of the Coral Sea and Midway, the United States had superiority in the air. Not air and apple sauce to the contrary notwithstanding, the country with the stronger air arm is going to win the battle of the Oceans in this war, all else being equal. Japan has not demonstrated so far that it can wrest control of the air from the United States. Air power is the key to victory. Deprived of it, Germany is just another battered military power. With air power alone, the Germans have kept the Mediterranean war alive. The United States has no doubt of its ability to produce and fly the world's greatest air armada; after a few more battles, Japan will have no doubt of it either.

Four, all of us are feeling better about the way Japan is being given reason to develop healthy respect for United States fighting ability in general. It is plain now that there is no disposition on either side to under-rate the other. The issue is to determine whose ideas are going to dominate the Pacific area. Americans are more certain than at any time since the incident at Pearl Harbor that Japan would need vastly more punch than it is capable of developing to what its sword rattlers obviously thought they could do.

Rationalized Service

SOME of the regret expressed over curtailment of service customs that have made American customers the most pampered people on earth is perfunctory. In many cases rationed service is going to be rationalized service, a claim that never could be made in its behalf before.

Competition, the spice of life, decreed that Mrs. Snootch had to be appeased at any price. The policy of appeasement led to all sorts of excesses, but once begun it had to be permitted to run out its course. Service With A Smile was more than a slogan; the people paying for the service had to smile to keep their sanity.

It was one of the things foreigners marveled at when asked for their impressions of America. It was one of the things Americans marveled at, too, when they stopped to think about it. Service sometimes became a kind of gadget to play with, like a door that opened itself; half the fun was in watching it work.

And work it did—so incredibly well that any defection immediately became an excuse for recriminations and slanders. The service people had made their beds and must lie in them. But that didn't mean they enjoyed their dilemma. It isn't to be imagined that many of them will make the most of their present opportunity, but if a few of them do manage to convey the impression that elimination of a lot of needless running around is a silver lining in the war clouds they can be forgiven.

If Paperwads Could Kill

RECENTLY in a description of the tremendous number of government reports that private enterprise must make out—the "bookkeeping blitz"—United States News, which specializes in government information, said there "still is a mystery about who reads the millions of reports that pour into the capitol."

This is something a lot of business men have wondered about. The reports are one of their major headaches; they are complicated and costly. Their psychological effect, moreover, is bad because it amounts to reminding the managers of private enterprise 24 hours a day that in order to stay in business they must do what the government tells them to do, whether it makes sense or not.

But there is an obvious remedy for all this. It would take only a few thousand hours of additional time from the war effort for the government to explain what is done with the tons of documents it is receiving. Plainly, it is impossible to read them, or if they could be read to assimilate the information they contain. One business man tells about seeing them dumped by bales into bins, but that's only part of the answer. What became of them then? It's something for that office of facts and figures everybody has heard so much about to look into without further delay.

News Behind the News

Variety of Formulas Presented in Search for Right Course.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 11.—I have a plan for a business man who would like to see the New Deal tried in the case of the 10 years of present depression, and the plan is to let the business man try it.

A letter from a business man in St. Louis City, Missouri, tells me that prices of goods are falling and he wants to know what to do.

A business man in the east made a plan in which he had found a way to make money and he wanted to know what to do.

I have come to distrust all mechanical economic formulas. The New Deal tried them all and they did not work to remedy the condition with which we were faced. The price theory of the St. Louis City economist was tried first in the gold devaluation and other ways. The value of gold was changed to stimulate prices but prices did not move.

The theory of the New Deal economist was tried in the form of government-owned enterprises. A business counterpart of that was tried in the pending policy to create artificial production.

These two steps failed to do the job, until the war came along and the necessity for unprecedented war production required the expenditure of inconceivable sums, which, of course, can not be maintained permanently.

The theory of the business man has not been tried. It does not involve a mechanical formula. Instead, it occurs only that government will be used for benevolent encouragement of the democratic capitalist system, not for discouragement.

This business man, Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing Co., says there were an estimated 6,000,000 homes without telephones in this country during our 10 depression years, 10,000,000 without telephones, 10,000,000 without homes without central heat.

"Lack of buying power," he asks. "Not at all. Lack of ingenuity in exchange of goods and effort. We could have produced and financed these needs and more. We failed to do the selling job."

People will have money after this war, he points out. Savings are accumulating.

Our system a failure? Why, says Mr. Fuller, from "a poor nation, 95 per cent of whose people were ill-clothed, ill-fed, ill-housed and ill-educated, we have risen in 150 years to the supremacy of the world."

World, over all other systems." Was this because nature endowed us with ability, or because we were larger, older, better than others? Says Mr. Fuller:

"China has an older civilization. India has a larger population. Russia has comparable natural resources. England is a greater empire. Germany also was a republic. France was highly trained and skilled workers. Japan has a longer work day."

"But in all the world, only the United States could hope to produce enough planes, tanks, guns, ships and everything else quickly enough to win this war."

Unification. Mr. Fuller could have gone further. He could have pointed out that this unprecedented accomplishment is attributable to the new unification of purpose as between government, capital and labor and the typical American ingenuity exhibited by all three in this war effort.

He could have expanded his current theory beyond the war and into the future, into the whole field of government-citizen relations for the future, in which government emphasis should be to help business to develop and expand, encouraging citizens to work and thus accomplish their own greater security through savings and effort, urging profits for all, for business, for labor, for citizen, punish idleness wherever found in all three groups alike, in a democratic way.

Our trouble the last 10 years, as the success of our war effort shows, is that we have had our head down, looking only at unemployment figures, groping for security at the bottom of the hole instead of at the top, trying to share a depression wealth which did not exist, instead of creating real wealth for all.

The depression stunned us into this despair. Even when we had 9,000,000 unemployed for a time, we had 40,000,000 or more employed whose interests were at least equal importance, although you never heard of them, only of the unemployed. We looked at the bottom side of everything.

I think a "sales and merchandising" policy under unified cooperation of government, capital and labor is all this country needs.

This does not mean a return to the old system, because that can not be done. The taxation, regulatory and labor standards have been permanently established in our reform era. We should merely go on now and use them democratically and wisely, rather than sink back into the reactionary and permanent depression of Socialism, of the Communist, Nazi or Fascist varieties.

How Doolittle Started

SALEM, Ore.—Leadership of the American bombing squadron that dropped the first bombs on Japan came to Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle as easily as a politician's speech to a congressman.

Heading up that raid was what you would expect from a fellow who was a pilot on important solo missions as a little shaver of four—and made of the stuff heroes are born from.

Piloting was old stuff to Jimmy Doolittle long before he dreamed of his first pair of long pants and for him it was only a hop, skip and jump from dog-drawn wagon to Uncle Sam's fighting planes.

Mother's Helper. Little Jimmy became a dog-wagon pilot around the turn of the century in Alaska and no one, except his widowed mother, knew any better how important were his missions than Mr. and Mrs. Levi Balmer, who now live here. The Balmers told of this chapter in General Doolittle's life.

They were in Nome during the gold rush when Mrs. Doolittle ran the little Gem laundry and Jimmy braved the Arctic blasts, toting the laundry in his wagon.

It was all the young widow could do to wash and iron, and the rest was up to Jimmy—especially collecting on delivery. Saloonkeepers and gamblers, usually considered as notorious, if not dangerous, characters of the Alaska gold boom days, gave Jimmy no more pause than than Japanese defenses do today.

He collected, too. Gamblers and saloon proprietors were among Mrs. Doolittle's best customers, the Balmers recalled, and little Jimmy would barge right in, let them pick out their packages and hold out his hand until they crossed his palm with gold dust.

Between deliveries Jimmy often accompanied Mrs. Balmer, who was an amateur amateur photographer. One day they saw a flock of birds in flight, she said, and Jimmy looked up and remarked earnestly:

"I could fly like that—except I wouldn't know what to do with my legs."

That was something Uncle Sam taught him to do in flight—and well.

Under Control

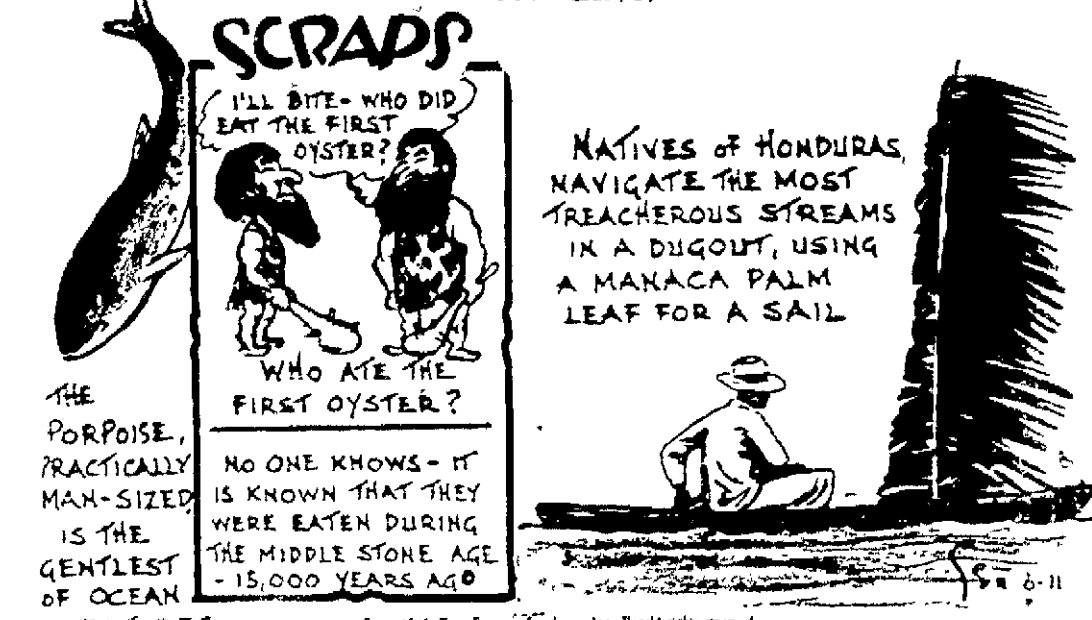

Before he begins work, many a modern dentist thrusts an electric switch into the patient's hand.

"This gives you instant control over the drill," the dental surgeon tells him. "I will take it just as easy as possible; but if it hurts too much, you can shut off the power." Repeated tests have shown that the average patient, knowing he can stop the drill at any time, calmly endures twice as much before shutting off the power.—William F. America Believed at a Turning Point in Huge War Program.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE formation of the Nelson-Lyttelton agency, known as the combined production and resources board, marks an important stage in our conduct of the war.

Theoretically, such a board might usefully have been created six months ago when Mr. Churchill was in Washington. It was not created then for various reasons, among them the fact that neither here nor in Britain was there then any one with the authority over production which Mr. Nelson and Captain Lyttelton now possess.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, June 11, 1932. The annual state convention of the United Commercial Travelers came to a close in Marion and arrangements were already under way for the state convention of the Improved Order of Red Men to open in the city Monday. In the meantime, negotiations were under way for the Ohio grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, to meet here in September.

A slight improvement was reported in the condition of Dr. James W. McMurray, who was critically ill at the City hospital. Miss Catherine Holdridge, student at Miami university, Oxford, O., arrived to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holdridge of Forest street. She had recently been elected secretary of the university Y. W. C. A.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Eddington of Congress street and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Bohler of Mary street. George W. Schreck, 87, Civil war veteran, died at his home on Blaine avenue.

Mrs. Glen Toms entertained a company of children at her home on South State street honoring her daughter, Betty Lou, who was celebrating her sixth birthday anniversary.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, June 11, 1922. Secretary of State Hughes was engaged in working out a permanent foreign policy for the United States which he hoped would continue regardless of changes in administration.

Memorial services were held at Salem Evangelical church for deceased members of Buckeye lodge No. 35, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and Pride of 35 Lodge, No. 79, Ladies Auxiliary, B. R. T. Rev. A. J. Koch, pastor of the church, gave the memorial address. Contributing to the program were Miss Alfrida Hord, William Belter, Mrs. Lawrence Welmer, Ralph S. Kinney and Fred Freuninger.

The Prospect Stars baseball team, defeated the Columbus Realtors at Gast park in Prospect. 3-0. Lefty Giller pitched for Prospect.

Dr. James W. McMurray was in receipt of a letter from Rep. John C. Speaks requesting information regarding unmarked graves of soldiers of 1812 in the Wyatt cemetery near Waldo.

The Marion Daily Stars defeated the Wadsworth baseball team at Lincoln park. 4-0. Glenn Price, Marion centerfielder, won the game when he drove the ball over the right field fence in the eighth inning for a home run. Hudson pitched for Marion and Conroy caught.

Mrs. Catherine Jenkins, 77, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Michael Moran, on West Farming street.

son and Captain Lyttelton now possess. But there was almost certainly a deeper reason. Six months ago American industry had not yet been converted to war, and American production of actual weapons was still very much inferior to the British, and scarcely sufficient for mere defense and training and some contributions under lease-lend.

We have now reached a volume of production which is equal to that of Great Britain, and we now have the facilities and are tooled up for production which in the coming months will far exceed that of any other country in the world. The point has, therefore, been reached where it is possible to take the offensive. And it is, therefore, necessary to make sure that the surplus of arms we shall produce is now used directly to wage offensive war on the enemy.

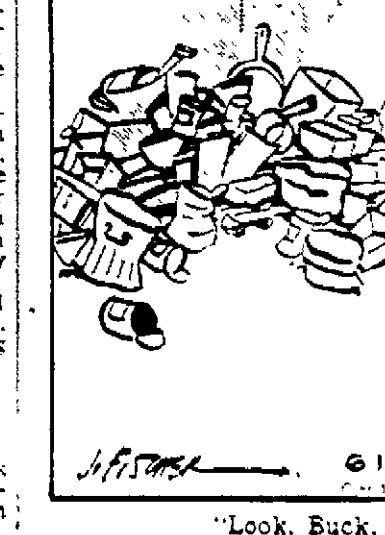

Purpose of Board

This is the purpose of the Nelson-Lyttelton board: to see to it that our industrial power, no longer a blueprint and a promise but an actuality, is used to wage, not a theoretical war, but this war here and now. We have come, so to speak, to graduation day in the American war effort. We are at the great turning point. Having been the arsenal, we are now able to be an ally. From "production" for "defense" we are now beginning to be equipped to wage war. From a position where for six months the best we could do was to plug the holes in defensive positions all over the world, we are now able to plan campaigns for the purpose of winning the war.

This requires an improvement in the direction of the war. The Nelson-Lyttelton board is a very important, though surely not the final, step. It will do much, no doubt, to dovetail British and American war production. An obvious example is, as regards Europe, to have Britain concentrate on the short-range fighter planes and the United States on bombers which can be flown to Europe. But what is even more important, the new combined board should do much to make war production fit directly the actual plans for waging the offensive campaigns of 1942 and 1943.

Got Any 30x3 1-2?

By The Associated Press. SANTA ROSA, Tex.—John S. Stoops has a 1911 model automobile that has been in regular service since the day it left a dealer's showroom. Right now it's a handy car to have. Stoops reports, because its 30 x 3 1/2 size tires are listed as obsolete and worn out, provided a purchaser can find a dealer who has some to sell.

ment of men's thinking. Broadly speaking during the first six months, we have had to overcome the habits of business as usual. This has given us a great arsenal. Now, speaking broadly again, we have to overcome the habits of mind which might be called "militarism as usual." These are the habits of mind which tend to develop among professional soldiers and sailors the world over, by which they seek to wait for the "theoretically absolutely perfect condition of equipment and preparedness. In actual war perfect preparedness is never attained, and the art of war consists in the wise choice of what Admiral King has called "calculated risks."

The dispositions which led to the success at Midway seem to be a shining example of this very thing. The conduct of the anti-submarine war is, on the other hand, a rather bad example of militarism as usual—in the case of the unwillingness to act with all the means that can be improvised to be made available and the tendency to wait because the more desirable equipment is not ready.

In the larger operations of the war the effect of militarism as usual is to aim at the too perfect equipment of larger forces than can be made ready soon enough where they are most needed to affect the course of the war. Since unlimited equipment can never be available, the practical effect, as one competent judge of these matters has put it, is to equip 100 military units 50 per cent. Yet it is the fully equipped units at the scene of the battles which we need now to think about—now that we have passed from the passive phase of defense and preparedness to the active business of fighting our enemies.

By The Associated Press. OGDEN, Utah—Sergeant Steven Prince has cooked meals for soldiers fighting in five wars—the Spanish-American, Boxer rebellion, the Mexican border skirmishes, the first World War and this one.

One of his most vivid memories is of fighting in the Philippines. With front-line troops unfed for 36 hours, his mess staff scrawled food on their backs and crawled through mud to the soldiers.

The Metropolitan Insurance Co.'s Bulletin, which compiled a matrimony sheet, also reports that the chances of marriage are about two in three for a single man at age 27. They are one in two at age 30, one in four at age 35. For bachelors and women who have reached 45, the remaining chances are no better than one in 10.

MIDWAY SHOW

In all actions both June 3 and June 4.

The crew members pushed themselves equally hard. They ate only four skimpy meals in four days, slept only two to four hours nightly.

Engineer Sgt. Bernard Carroll of Toms River, N. J., got no sleep at all during the battle as he and others worked night-long to keep the engines in shape.

Liked June 4 Best

Their attack on the Jap fleet the morning of June 4 impressed the crewmen most, Gregory said: "We circled around in clouds for 45 minutes waiting to get a good crack at them. They were under a heavy overcast, but foolishly stuck their noses out of it and we went in and let them have it. We passed up a battle-ship to crack a carrier and really cracked it."

Navigator Lieut. Lamin C. Peterson of Gunnison, Utah, said:

"The Lord must have blown those clouds away for us."

After bombs had been dropped from a fairly low level, machine gunners Sgt. Matt Schu of Plainington, S. D., and Sgt. Robert Martin of San Francisco strafed the decks of enemy ships.

Gregory grinned. "I couldn't figure what the shooting was all about and guessed another Zero was on our tail. I called to Pitts, asking if we were being attacked. The answer came back over the radio 'glub glub glub' and that's all I could get out of him. I found out later he was saying 'no more!'"

The men of this crew weren't impressed by the Jap fighter pilots. Pate said:

"It looked to me like they were just showing off. They never did want to mix it. They did all sorts of aerobatics all over the sky. It looked pretty as hell, but they'd peel off whenever they got fairly close to us. As far as we're concerned, that suicide theory is all exploded. Those Japs like to see the sun rise every morning as much as anybody else."

DINNER NEAR MARTEL

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lyon entertained with a family dinner Sunday at their home west of Martel. Present were Mrs. Lyon's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hickman of near Meeker, Joseph Imogene, William, Helen and Marie Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hickman and son Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hickman and daughter Dianna Jeanne, Delmar Hickman and Miss Thelma James and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hickman, all of near Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Rozman of Upper Sandusky, Mrs. John Smith and Janice and Buddy Smith of La Rue, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Gardner of Gallien and Mrs. Peggy Joyce Lyon. Callers in the afternoon were J. S. Lyon, Jay Lyon and Marlene and Velma Dale Lyon of Caledonia.

day-old German offensive against Sevastopol, Russia's big German naval base, with 10 Nazi divisions of perhaps 150,000 troops thrown into the attack.

A Bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters, which yesterday claimed that Axis siege forces had lured deep into Sevastopol's fortification system declared today that the Russians were making "desperate" counterattacks and were being repulsed.

Sevastopol is the last Soviet stronghold in the Crimea, and apparently Hitler is intent on knocking it out before attempting a thrust into the Caucasus oil fields to the east.

Soviet dispatches said the axis drive against Sevastopol was stalled, but acknowledged that the German armies again had taken the initiative in the battle-scarred sector of Kharkov, Russia, "Pittsburgh" of the Ukraine, 400 miles south of Moscow.

A Red army communiqué reported tersely that "a battle took place" around Kharkov. No details were given.

Strike from Three Points

With the Germans striking at three major points, from Sevastopol in the south to Murnan-k in the Far North Soviet dispatches suggested that Hitler at last was getting his summer campaign under way after being hurled back for almost six months.

Neutral observers doubted, however, that Hitler had started a full-scale blitz offensive along the whole front.

In aerial warfare, RAF night raiders attacked German air-dromes in the low countries and military targets in Nazi-occupied France. Bad weather prevented long-range forays against Germany for the second night in a row.

Other RAF bombers raided the big Taiano naval base, in south-east Italy, for the third successive night.

COLUMBUS MAYOR CUTS CITY SERVICES

450 Employees Affected Following Levy Rejection.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., June 11—Mayor Floyd F. Green, in the wake of the defeat of a special levy, today ordered sharp curtailment of municipal services and the layoff next Monday of 450 to 475 city employees, including nearly half the personnel of the police and fire departments.

The action, affecting 150 policemen, 150 firemen and workers in every other division of municipal government, followed voters' rejection by a four to one margin Tuesday of a charter amendment which would have authorized city council to levy a 2.5 mill additional real estate tax to provide funds for the police and fire departments for two years.

Green ordered refuse collections in this city of 304,972 population abolished, garbage collections semi-monthly instead of weekly, elimination of all supervision at city playgrounds, dismissal of all park employees except watchmen and abolition of a fund to pay claims against the city.

Dismissals affected approximately one-third of the 1,400 municipal workers who draw salaries from the general fund.

Ohio Is Winning Flood Battle, Congress Told

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 11—Army engineers are winning the long battle against floods in the Ohio valley, Rep. Thomas R. Jenkins (R-Ohio) told fellow congressmen. Thanks to flood control legislation, Jenkins said, many Ohio communities have protection against damaging high waters, once an inevitable certainty in seasons of heavy rains and snows.

"Because of legislation passed by this congress a few years ago," Jenkins added, "a statement in the house record, many of the communities along the Ohio river hope to escape these terrible calamities in the future."

5 Times the POWER Behind Every Yank!

"Democracy is decadent. America is fat and flabby from soft, easy living, so chanted the Axis purveyors of propaganda, hoping to make us really believe it, lose confidence in ourselves and make the easy (for them) way out of indifference to freedom's fate throughout the war-torn world."

But how quickly "tough" Americans, forewarned by incredible treachery, painfully proved them wrong and themselves strong and wide awake at Wake, Midway, Bataan, in the Macassar Straits, the Coral Sea, over Tokyo, yes! and again at Midway and in a way that they will long remember!

How incredibly quickly, too, America's factories—supposedly too devoted to making soft-living gadgets to be feared by the Axis—shifted from what was thought to be "high" production and actually was the world's fastest into a breathtaking production performance seriously dreamed of by but few persons indeed even here in production-pride America!

May history record with utmost clarity and force those two significant facts above for the benefit of future Hitlers, Hirohitos and Benitos.

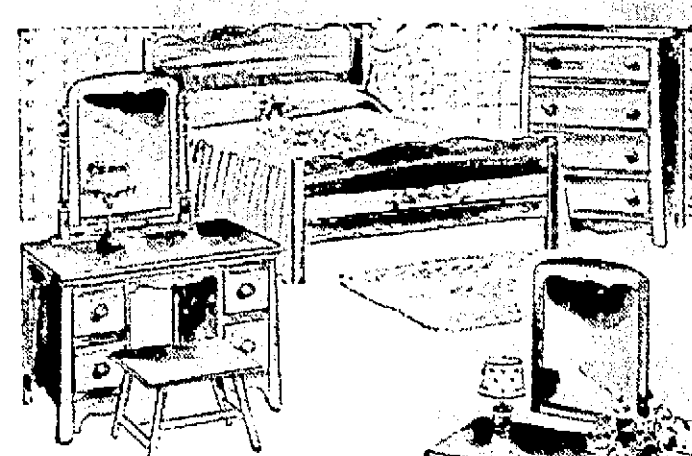

America could of course accomplish this "production miracle" only because of a "fat bank account" of electric power on which her rapidly expanding industries could—and did—draw without delay. For her unequalled resources of electric power—5 times what they were in World War I and greater than all our enemies combined—America has only her own self to thank, only her own way of doing things, only her own system of individual initiative and enterprise under which not only the world's best electric power and industrial systems were built, but also the world's greatest brotherhood of man, a nation so fundamentally sound and strong that in the world's greatest emergency its "rise to the occasion" amazed no people more than those privileged to be called "Americans."

Japanese Lose Heavily in Men and Ships

from carriers were attacking Midway.

Their first attack made at high level with heavy demolition bombs, lasted 38 minutes and was directed against both Sand Island and the nearby Eastern island, which comprise Midway.

Japanese dive-bombers dropped out of the sun and attacked Midway's ground installation while pursuit planes followed the strafing attacks. At least 120 planes participated.

Marine fighters engaged the enemy planes and the marine ground defenders cut loose with everything from anti-aircraft to machine guns.

The Japanese did not bomb runways, apparently expecting to occupy the island and use the airbase.

Shortly after the Japanese withdrew, the American planes returned to defend and take on more bombs.

"This was the critical period of the entire battle for our land-based airforce," said General Hale.

But the enemy didn't come back. They were too busy protecting themselves. From then on the Japanese were withdrawing and it was a series of mopping operations.

The army heavy bombers refused to return and took off again. They located the Japanese battle force once more in the afternoon and damaged one heavy cruiser and possibly another.

Colonel Leads Attack

Col. Walter C. Sweeney Jr., of San Francisco, led the squadron of flying Fortresses in attacks both on June 3 and 4. (His father, Major General Walter C. Sweeney, came out of retirement this week to accept appointment as commander of the California state guard and the state militia.)

Colonel Sweeney and other crewmen of the B17s praised their planes most enthusiastically, some saying: "Those planes will win the war."

Crews of the Flying Fortresses said the Japanese fighters never pressed home attacks on the American bombers, not a single one of which was shot down, whereas the Fortresses downed three and possibly four enemy Zero fighters.

Sweeney's squadron lost two men on the ground at Midway but the other casualty was one man-gunner who was shot through the finger.

Fortresses crew members said the Zero pilots feared the firepower of the Fortresses and seldom came close.

Sweeney gave this close-up account:

"We first contacted the enemy far out in the Pacific on the afternoon of June 3. There were over twenty Japanese ships lined in columns, with big ships in the center. We circled to the westward and came in with the sun at our backs.

Ships Scatter Quickly

"When the Japs sighted us they immediately fled, each ship immediately, trying frantically to avoid attack.

"We were at a medium altitude because of clouds, and anti-aircraft was soon splitting at us. It was far more accurate than we expected, and many of our planes were bounced around a bit but none was seriously damaged.

"We picked out the biggest ships in sight, and laid our bombs in a pattern. Our bombardiers and rear gunners saw direct hits on one cruiser, one transport and possibly a second cruiser. One of our planes also reported hitting a battleship.

"Frankly, I didn't stay around too long to check up. Anti-aircraft fire was making things hot, and we left in a hurry.

"We really were happy as we headed home. We had our first taste of battle and had given the Japs a taste of our striking power.

"Over the inter-plane radios the gang was full of life and pep. We knew no fighters were in the air since there had been no carriers among the Jap ships, so there was nothing to worry about enroute home.

"We landed at our base and crews started immediately to get the ships in shape for the following morning. We knew the Japs would be over then.

"We hopped off the next morning at dawn under orders to attack the same enemy force. We climbed 'way up and headed on out. After a short while new orders came over the radio, and we were told to attack even a larger Japanese battlefleet which already was close to Midway.

Life On The Dot

"That change didn't puzzle our navigator, Lieut. Bill Adams, of San Bernardino, Calif.

"Adams told me we would reach our targets at 34 minutes after the hour, and sure enough we hit it to the minute. Capt. Paul Payne of Des Moines, Ia., sighted the enemy first through broken clouds.

"There was a big battle line, with destroyers outside, then cruisers, battleships and away back the carriers which we picked for our target.

"We picked the biggest carrier and headed for it.

"The minute our bomb-bays opened, the ack-ack started coming up. It was fine shooting. The Japs must have good rangefinders because the first shots were right at our altitude.

"The Jap ships started their frantic escape maneuvers but our pattern of bombs blanketed a carrier. We got a least one definite hit on the port bow of the carrier and saw flame and smoke of the explosion.

"Even in the midst of the attack we had time to chuckle over our bombardier who coolly remarked over the plane's radio: 'My God, that anti-aircraft looks beautiful through this telescope.'

"It looked beautiful, all right.

MARINES WIN ARMY'S PRAISE

Officers Laud Leathernecks in Account of Midway "Fight to the Death" Battle.

By CLARK LEE
AP War Correspondent

GENERAL EMMONS HEADQUARTERS, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, June 11—Army aviators performed unbraved feats of gallantry and bravery in the battle of Midway but the boys who did them shrug them off as nothing compared to the deeds of the United States marines.

Said Col. Walter C. Sweeney Jr., commander of the Flying Fortress squadron: "The marines are even better than their press releases. America should be proud of them."

Every army flier who saw the marines at Midway had similar praise for their coolness, toughness, courage and willingness to sacrifice their own lives. Only a portion of the story of what the marines did can yet be told.

Praises Pilot

One army pilot who led a low-level attack on a Japanese carrier through devastating anti-aircraft fire and fighter opposition said: "I can't get over those young marine pilots, many of them kids just out of flying school."

"One marine pilot couldn't get his wheels retracted after the takeoff, so he was unable to fight. Instead of flying away from the battle area he stayed at 48 feet above the water. He let a Zero fighter get on his tail, then led it over our anti-aircraft which shot it down. Then he did the same stunt with another Jap."

"Before the fight started we were boasting with marine dive bomber pilots—it was just 'beer talk'—over what we would do in the Japs. They told us: 'We'll cripple every one of your carriers and you sink 'em. As it turned out we hit the Japs first. But when those marine pilots came back they told us they had kept their word and hit every single carrier they had sighted.'

Pilot's Account

Another army pilot said: "When we landed after bombing the Japs the morning of June 11 we found Midway had been attacked. Many of the marines were dead but the survivors were the coolest and most determined bunch of men I ever saw."

"Gunners were sitting around patting their guns, picking their teeth, glaring skyward and saying to one another: 'I wish those would come back soon.'

"We expected them back at any moment and were hurrying to get off again. We knew if we made it we would be okay. But those marines weren't going anywhere. It was their job to stick and fight, if necessary to the death. There's never been anything like it."

but it also looked dangerous, so we headed out and away.

"A few Zeros came up at us but we lost them quickly due to our speed and their ineffectiveness."

Find Midway Bombed

"We streaked for our base and found that Midway had been bombed while we were out there. We expected the Japs would come back, so we loaded as rapidly as possible and got back into the air and sped back toward the battle line."

"Adams was doing his job as usual. At 4 p. m. we found the enemy. We saw one carrier and one capital ship burning. They were lying dead, not making headway, and obviously they were badly damaged."

"No undamaged carriers were visible, so we picked out the biggest ship we could see—a heavy cruiser. We let go at it. One bomb struck it directly amidships, and left it smoking and badly damaged."

"When we got back to our base our planes and crews both needed rest badly, so Lieut. Colonel Brock Allen took over with his squadron."

(Colonel Allen was a member of the Roberts committee which investigated the Dec. 7 Pearl Harbor episode.)

"I am sold on the effectiveness of high-level bombing. If we can get enough planes for attack like these, nothing can escape us since we can lay bombs in patterns which no ship can avoid."

"We all had a grand time. Everybody was ready. Everybody did everything they should have done. There was perfect cooperation among the three branches of the service—the army, navy and the marines."

Pilots Do Dialogue on Battle Experiences

By CLARK LEE
The Associated Press

GENERAL EMMONS HEADQUARTERS, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, June 11—An explosive anti-aircraft shell hit a flying fortress piloted by Lieut. Jack D. Whidden, 25, of Van Nuys, Calif., and Lieut. Chuck R. Crowell, 22, Freeport, Ill., but they pressed home their attack, hit and probably sank a Japanese destroyer in the battle of Midway.

They told about it in these words:

JACK: We were flying along following our squadron leader through the clouds. He ordered our plane to prepare to drop bombs. Just then we burst through the clouds and there we found a Japanese carrier.

Highlights From Lee's Stories on Midway Battle

Salient points in the great battle of Midway, as disclosed today in Clark Lee's dispatches from General Emmons headquarters.

The Japanese sent two huge fleets against Midway island—one consisting mainly of transports, the other a strong battle force.

U. S. army bombers first contacted the transport fleet the afternoon of June 3 and hit a cruiser or battleship, a destroyer and a transport.

The U. S. forces were ready for the attack from the battle fleet which came on the morning of June 4 with a raid by at least 120 enemy planes.

Marine fighters engaged the Japanese and marine anti-aircraft fire cut losses. The Japanese spaced runways, apparently hoping to occupy Midway for an air base.

Army, navy and marine planes attacked the battle fleet. Flying Fortresses hit one carrier in this attack, retreating and damaged one heavy cruiser and possibly another. No Flying Fortresses were lost.

The critical point in the whole fight for the land-based planes came when they returned in this attack, refueled and pick up bombs and ammunition—but by that time the Japanese fleet had withdrawn and were so busy protecting themselves that they did not come back.

All reports have not been received and the full story of the battle is still to be told.

Lucky Clark Lee Always Turns Up Where War Is Hot

By The Associated Press

Lucky Clark Lee once more has landed squarely in the midst of a great, historic battle and is turning out the story with the skill of a veteran who has seen plenty of action in the Pacific area.

Lee, 35, was headed home on a vacation last December when the Japanese attack caught him in the Philippines. He covered the Philippine campaign and the defense of Bataan so masterfully that he won widespread praise throughout the United States and official commendation from the U. S. army.

From the Philippines he went to Australia, thence to New Zealand and New Caledonia. He turned up in Hawaii just in time to cover the Midway action.

Lee was graduated from Rutgers university in 1929 and joined The Associated Press. Newark staff that year. He served A1 members in New York as chief of bureau in Mexico City and Honolulu and in the Shanghai and Tokyo bureaus before the war.

Some 20 to 25 ships beneath us and they were blazing at us."

CHUCK: "The ack-ack was plenty thick. In fact, very thick. We were down real low for planes of our type—Fortresses. I felt pretty scared."

JACK: "So did I. I feel scared for a few minutes. Then I got mad. So did Chuck. From then on we were too mad to be scared."

"This stuff (anti-aircraft fire) was setting pretty thick. We were flying right through it. Then an explosive shell hit our left wing. It cut the main spar and wrecked the flaps and damaged the ailerons. The cockpit suddenly filled up with smoke. It smelled like firecrackers. We thought for a while that we were on fire. That shell knocked down our rear carrier but he got up again and told me over the phone he could see a lot of holes in our left wing."

CHUCK: "I remember the sound of that shell. It went 'ker-poom' and waves of hot air came up out of the cockpit."

JACK: "There was a destroyer directly ahead of us. It was our target and believe me we were its target. That destroyer was really putting out. It must have thrown 500 AAA shells in 30 seconds. The sky was black with exploding shells."

CHUCK: "We kept going in and the bombardier laid one right on the stern of that destroyer. We could see the explosion and it was smoking badly as we pulled away."

JACK: "Then two Zeros got after us. The tail gunner got the first one, which went down in flames. The side and rear gunners knocked the hell out of the second one."

CHUCK: "Our situation wasn't any too good. Our flaps were shot away. The left wing was a little wobbly. One motor wasn't functioning right. It was nearing night time and we were heading for a strange field on a small island."

JACK: "I believe it was pure luck that got us back plus, of course, smart navigation and swell leadership by our group commander, Capt. Ernest Man-niere of Hartford, Conn. Our flight never broke formation and we landed okay."

JACK AND CHUCK: "Those B17s will win the war."

Lieut. Edward A. Steedman, 28, of Sherman, Tex., and his companion, Second Lieut. D. K. Carpenter, 21, of Monroe, Ore., saw action on June 3 and June 4 as members of a bomber formation headed by Captain Cecil Faulkner of Bellevue, Tex.

"We took off without knowing exactly what we were up against although we knew our boys had a flock of Japs spotted," said Steedman. "Our captain just flew along and we came in out of the sun and saw an invasion fleet of 26 vessels. We dropped our load on a transport. Next morning we started out again as soon as daylight and found and hit a carrier. Our bombardier put one right on the bow."

Three Japanese Zero-fighters attacked their plane and one of them was shot down by the tail gunner.

Somebody asked Steedman: "Did you feel good when you saw that Jap go down?"

"Oh hell yes," answered Steedman.

Later four Zero fighters got under the bomber's tail but it got away without a scratch.

Said Steedman and Carpenter: "Put three of those 175 together and they'll tackle anything. We would just as soon be in one of them over Tokyo as any place we can think of."

CLUB YOUTH GUARDS GET UNIFORMS

State Inspector Reports on Marion Night Clubs

Inspector Earl Cullison of the state liquor control department returned to Columbus yesterday afternoon after his investigation of the Marion and Royal night clubs. He told city officials a full report on his findings would be submitted to the liquor control board.

Although there was no indication as to the nature of his report, Russell Wilhelm, acting city solicitor, said the city expects a reply to the letter sent to the board by Chief Marks and some formal action by the board.

Mr. Wilhelm said the city wants a definite indication of the status of the two clubs.

Ohio Man Indicted as Sugar Violator

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., June 11—John Everett Gills, 53, of Gallipolis, charged with "failure to render return as to disposition of sugar" and 71 other persons indicted by a federal grand jury are scheduled for arraignment next Tuesday.

The office of U. S. Attorney Calvin Crawford reported Gills was the first person indicted in this area for violation of sugar rationing regulations and that he was served with an internal revenue department notice to make a correct return but failed to do so. He is co-owner of the Gills Produce Co.

U. S. NAVAL FORCES JOIN BRITISH FLEET

Powerful Units Now Engaged in Blockade of Germany.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 11—Powerful United States naval units have joined the British home fleet in the tasks of blockading the Germans and protecting vital allied shipping lanes by keeping Adolf Hitler's mightiest warships from joining the battle of the Atlantic.

The American forces whose arrival was announced today, apparently are sufficiently strong to cope with the German super-battleships, the heavy cruiser Admiral Hipper and other lesser craft should they venture from Norwegian bases which threaten Russia's Arctic supply line.

The full strength of the American units described officially as a "task force," was not revealed, but some indication of their power was given by the disclosure that King George VI had inspected a United States battleship, a cruiser and several destroyers.

Test the American warships have been operating from bases in the United Kingdom for more than a month, it was evident from the announcement that they had been greeted as heroes and escorted to port by the British cruiser Edinburgh which was sunk May 21 while protecting a Russia-bound convoy from attacks.

The task force is under the direct command of Rear Admiral Robert Giffen, who will receive orders from Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of all United States naval forces in Europe, at waters.

HOTEL MANAGER REPORTS 2 STRIKERS RESUME WORK

Statement Is Denied by Union Representatives.

Virgil Dye, manager of Hotel Harding, told a reporter today that two of the 19 striking employees asked permission to return to work yesterday after participating in a walkout strike at the hotel for five days. Both, he said, were given their old jobs.

He added that the hotel was operating more effectively each day. Every available room in the hotel was occupied last night and the absence of certain employees failed to hamper service, he said.

About 79 persons were working at the hotel this morning, an increase of five over the number working Tuesday.

W. J. Malone, secretary-treasurer and business representative of the union, denied Mr. Dye's statement that two strikers had deserted the picket line.

Both the hotel management and union officials said there was no likelihood of a settlement at present.

Professor at Ohio State Is Slain by Step-Son, 16

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—An Ohio State university chemistry professor, Dr. Charles E. Owens, was slain in his classroom today by a 16-year-old stepson, Campus Officer William North reported.

Judge Clayton Rose of the juvenile court said the boy was booked there as Steadman Thompson. No charges were filed immediately pending questioning of the youth by Judge Rose.

The slaying occurred at noon in Dr. Owens' vacant laboratory. He was shot through the arm. A .22 calibre bullet penetrated his neck, rushed to the laboratory and Officer North reported he apprehended the boy walking a short distance from the building.

North said the youth told him this story:

"The boy told me his father was been aggravating his mother and this seemed to him to be the best way to end the trouble."

"He said he had a .22 calibre gun but only one cartridge in it. He also got a long hunting knife from a chest and said if the father didn't kill his mother he was going to kill her with the knife."

When North and other police officers arrived the youth was reading a book of poetry. He told them he was a junior at Ohio State High school in Columbus and that "he always got good grades in school."

When taken before Judge Rose, young Thompson was described by juvenile detention house attaches as "quite calm."

THREE privates at Fort Sheridan, Ill., lured by the various types of incorrect saluting they saw, made this humorous index of the seven main kinds of error. They run from the world class to the one a recruit starts when he mistakes another yardbird for an officer. The only correct salute is shown at right.

Lights Will Indicate What Kind Of Vehicle You Meet in Blackout

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND—By their lights, you know the kind and size of vehicles you pass in the night during blackouts—and how to pass them safely.
If you're a good civilian, you'll see a pretty good reason before you civilian defense officials let you drive at all in blackouts.
In case you are permitted to use your car, a war department specification tells you how private automobiles—as well as trucks, ambulances, fire and police vehicles, trolleys and busses—must be illuminated to screen them from enemy aircraft and provide maximum highway safety.
Drawn up by army engineers with the aid of the office of defense transportation, the war production board, other government agencies and electric companies, the rules are expected to be placed in effect soon by the office of civilian defense.
You're cautioned to stay in the dark at least five minutes before attempting to drive on blacked-out streets and highways to adapt your eyes to the darkness.
You'll have one driving lamp—a 16-candle power bulb with reflector encased in black metal and shaded by a hood and mask. It's about one-fifth the strength of ordinary headlights, placed to the left center of the car, 36 to 48 inches above the road and far enough forward to prevent reflection from the vehicle.
Two small marker lights, near the front headlights, will define the vehicle's width. These lights can be seen by approaching traffic at a distance of 1,000 feet.
A combination tail and stop light gives off a faint, red glow when the vehicle is in motion, and an amber glow when it stops. These are V-shaped and recessed to obscure them from low-flying planes.
In addition, vehicles must have two or three reflector lights on each side, amber toward the front, red toward the rear.
Requirements are the same for ambulances, police and fire vehicles, street cars and busses, except that vehicles 80 inches wide must have two tail and stop lights. On ambulances, the small marker or "clearance" lights are white; on other vehicles, amber.
Motorcycles require one running light, one marker light and one tail light, while bicycles, push carts and other human-propelled vehicles require front and rear reflector lights.
It will help, too, if chromium and other shiny surfaces are covered with lustrous paint—drab brown, preferably. Hub caps, bumpers and other low portions should be painted with a white, reflectorized paint. Dashboard lights are out, unless the illumination is of low intensity and deep red color.
Pedestrians, like motorists, are expected to keep off streets and roads unless they have business there. In that case, they should wear white or reflectorized leggings, or white handkerchiefs tied around their legs, and carry blackout lanterns or flashlights.
You can use approximately the same equipment on cattle if you must drive the animals over a highway during a blackout.

Tribe Defeats Nats, 4 to 3, In 12 Innings; Cincinnati Reds Drop 6-1 Decision To Giants

Detroit's Roger Cramer Enters 2,000-Hit Class; One of Seven Active Major League Players To Achieve Mark.

By The Associated Press
That old college try, which means a never fight until the last man is out, seems to be one of the main differences between Cleveland Indians of today and yesterday. It has them in third place, a half game behind Boston and three percentage points ahead of Detroit.

For two nights running the Redskins have won extra-inning ball games by out-runs, last night's victory over the Washington Senators being a 4 to 3 triumph, which went 12 innings.

At the time last year the Tribe was forming the habit of fading toward the end of the game, and even allowing considerable margin.

Manager Lou Bourdreau seems to have instilled into the team the same attitude he worked with while coaching at the University of Illinois. He uses pinch hitters freely, and changes pitchers Hunkin-Conkey No. 1 Downs War Department, 14-5, in Commercial Loop.

Epworth No. 1 defeated Forest Lawn, 14-6, last night at the University of Marion. Steam Station, who seemed to share a lead with Epworth in the Sunday school league, lost to the latter in a three games and three innings.

Epworth called a double homer in the first inning. Clyde Eversley got a triple in the fourth in four trips.

First baseman had little trouble in getting Greenwood No. 2 by a score of 14-5 at Lincoln Park. Spring called a home run and Epworth had a triple to lead the game. First Presbyterian added.

In the only other Sunday school game the Greenwood

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR., Wide World Sports Columnist
NEW YORK, June 11.—An army and a big band. When an army of snafire moved in at the time where West Seattle High school athletes perform, the kids looked around and saw that the soldiers were any on athletic equipment. So they passed the hat and collected $49.92 — not a lot, but enough to get a few games going.

Most of you know have an army or navy outfit somewhere near, so how about taking a tip from the army's new kid, Chas. H. Baker, the San Francisco Olympic club coach, predicts that Cornelius Warfield will achieve that 16-foot pole vault during the coming eastern tour, if the weather is hot enough. Hunkin-Conkey says Connie may have mastered vaulting with a 13 foot 10 inch grip.

SERVICE DEPT. — The marines have landed: Wagon Marine Sergeant Farmer Seale, former Birmingham sports writer, learned that his outfit was trailing the army and navy in this dept., he passed the word along and a memo from southern recruiting division headquarters suggested contributions were in order. The next mail brought the news that a detachment led by Staff Sgt. Herbert Brewster, who used to play football for Ole Miss, had invaded Springs college in Florida and signed up the entire first string grid team for the marine corps reserve.

GALLERIES WATCH LITTLE, MANGRUM IN TOLEDO EVENT

Favored Pair Slated To Meet Nelson, Thomson Today.

TOLEDO, O., June 11.—Sixteen of the nation's top golf professionals have a sample of their wares today at a special annual tournament, the "Dutch" tournament.

The event, scheduled to begin today at 10 a.m., for $7,500 in prize money, is a golf clinic with each player competing in a series of matches, staged a golf clinic with each player competing in a series of matches, staged a golf clinic with each player competing in a series of matches.

Eyes of the galleries were on Lawson Little, winner of the American and British amateur in 1934 and 1935 and the 1940 National Open crown, and his partner Lloyd Mangrum.

The duo slugged out a brilliant 33-29-52 in a practice round yesterday, nine strokes under par despite bogies by both on the 1st hole.

The professional shoot 18 holes today and two rounds on each of the next three days, with each player competing every other day during the 126-hole event, which offers top money of $1,550 in cash and $550 in war bonds.

Today's pairings:
Horton Smith and Melvin "Doc" Herbert vs. Jimmy Hines and Herman Brown; Henry Picard and Sam Byrd vs. Herman Kester and Charles Harper; Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan, last year's champions, vs. E. J. "Dutch" Hansen and Denny Shute; and Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson vs. Mangrum and Little.

Rufus Jones, Joe Ferona To Meet in Armory Mat Feature

Martino Angelo and Jackie Steele To Tangle in S. Final Event; Panther Here Also.

Once again Marion's wrestling customers have made Prof. De Fabbiano's task of lining up suitable mat cards some lighter by requesting a special attraction for tonight's edition of the weekly Armory event and proor shows.

Many of the local fans, Fishman recently said, have asked to see what Joe Ferona, the Boston-born, and Graham-tracker, and Rufus Jones, the New York-born, would remount since their great bout here two weeks ago. On that occasion the two matadors fought in a draw, each scoring a time fall over a one-hour, ten-minute bout.

The first fight—a two-hour, ten-minute bout—will be a very difficult one for the two fighters as the toughest of the two is the toughest. Jones, whose ring antics have repeatedly provided a local lot of joy to countless local wrestling fans, is a fast talker, but for that matter, has plenty to talk about because he is one of the best.

Another postponement kept the Kansas City Blues, curtain raisers of the American association, idle again last night and Milwaukee seized the opportunity to improve its second place position.

Facing Louisville, the Brewers found it no such, and it took outfielder Bill Norman's clutch hit the left field fence to turn the trick, 4-3.

In the loop's only other contest, Toledo beat St. Paul, 10-3.

The nature attraction will be a baseball game between the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Naval Training base nine against an all-star army aggregation. The boxing addit will have a chance to see Corp. Joe Louis, champion, go four rounds against George Nicholson. To make the affair realistic, both boxers have promised to discard their head gear.

Golf contributes a "driving for accuracy" contest featuring Crag Wood, Vic Ghazzi, Corp. Jim Turnesa and Pvt. Ed (Porky) Oliver. There'll even be a soccer match involving Brooklyn and New York lineups, plus a tug-of-war in which the Gotham firemen will attempt to manhandle the police.

Don Budge will bare his red tush in a mixed doubles tennis encounter in which Alice Marble will be one of the competitors. To fill in the lulls between the

ERIE DOWNS CANTON, 10-2
By The Associated Press
ERIE, Pa., June 11—Erie, in the cellar spot less than a month ago, was tied with Zanesville for second in the Mid-Atlantic loop today after downing Canton 10 to 2 last night. The Sailors aim to cut down league-leading Charleston's four and one-half game margin when the teams meet Friday and Saturday.

Despite two homers by Dayton Outfielder Len Pili, Springfield defeated the Ducks, 5 to 3. Jack McClain, Former Ohio State, university star now with Springfield, hit for the circuit to tie the count in the seventh. Bob Kuzava of Charleston chalked up his seventh win against no losses in pitching the Senators to a 2 to 1 victory over Zanesville.

pany of baseball's old-time all-time standouts.

The latest to earn a place on the permanent honor roll is Roger Cramer, the Detroit Tigers' outfielder, who made three hits against the New York Yankees yesterday to hit his lifetime total to 2,001, a level that has been reached by only seven other players still active in the major leagues.

Luck Bartell of the New York Giants entered the 2,000 hit class in April and Mel Ott, Paul and Lloyd Waner, Jimmie Foxx, Joe Cronin and Charley Gehring already were there. Joe Medwick and Billy Herman of Brooklyn have a good chance of qualifying near the end of the season.

Cramer reached it in his 14th year in the American league. Paul Waner, in his 17th season, needs only five hits to total 2,000. Including Cramer, just 77 batters in the history of the major leagues have passed 2,000 hits, but only six have reached Waner's goal. Every one that made it now is memorialized in baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown—Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie and Cap Anson.

Homers Turn Trick
The three hits by Cramer were important, but they had nothing to do with the Tigers beating the world champions, 4-1. The blows that counted were a homer in the fifth by Jim Bloodworth and another by Ned Harris with two on in the 11th.

It was the first time this year that the Yanks had been beaten in extra innings.

Paul Waner notched his 2,003th hit last night, but his Boston mates collected only three others off Rip Sewell, who pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-0 shut-out over the Braves, their ninth straight loss.

On another night game the New York Giants climbed into a third place tie in the National league by beating Cincinnati, 6 to 1. They're now even with the Reds.

Big Bill Lee acquired his eighth victory of the season as

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Migraine Headache

Several weeks ago I published a short excerpt from a sufferer from migraine headaches who said that he could mitigate or prevent attacks entirely by refraining from drinking water as soon as he had an indication that the headache was coming on. I asked at the time if any other of my readers had had such experiences and I have had a very large and generous response from people who have had the same experience.

There were too many of these letters for the results to be mere coincidence. So far as I know, I have never seen any reference to this in a textbook of medicine, but that is understandable because so many people with migraine or sick headache treat themselves and their remedies never get to the medical profession.

They probably start out by having a doctor when their attacks first begin but soon find that he does not give very much that they can learn, excepting that he has to offer. For instance, in one of the letters that was sent me on the subject, a woman says that she and her family have moved seven times in the last 25 years and have consulted a great many doctors but she has never consulted one about her headaches.

A typical statement is as follows: "I suffered terribly from migraine for many years and it was necessary for me to take a great many opiates. I was always told to drink a lot of water but I not dissatisfied and quit it and found that my headaches were not nearly so severe, although they did not quit entirely. But when I force myself to drink water, they are always worse. I am writing this, hoping it might be a help to someone else."

Another one says, "I have had migraines since I was about 19 and am now 50. I cannot endure the thought of drinking water before the headaches start or during the worst of the pain and when water tastes good, I am sure the headaches is over for that time. Another thing I have noticed is that the quickest way to get over the exhaustion from the pain and nausea is to eat very rare beef. My family have their laugh at Mother's day-after-a-headache diet of rare hamburger steak. My grandfather had these headaches, also, my father who was an M. D. but could not cure his own migraine headaches. My sister has them, but my brother does not."

Another letter says: "I confirmed the fact that drinking water makes the headaches worse when one day I was coming out of church services and the minister advised me to drink a lot of water for my severe headache. I took his advice and as usual my headache became a lot worse. If I starve myself from water entirely, the headache is always less severe and sometimes I can prevent it entirely in this way."

These letters indicate some of the high points of that queer, queer disease, migraine. It is undoubtedly hereditary. It is a disease of the active part of life, usually beginning about the age of nineteen and usually stopping Madge Gives Spencer Notes on the Gangster's Talk. Then Takes Ronald to See Lillian.

TELL HIM I'll be right there," my father instructed, then came back to me. "Harry is calling," he said. "I'll come back and give you his message as soon as I have it." He hurried out, and I sat tense and anxious until he returned. "It wasn't Harry calling, but it was his message relayed by Miss Whitlock," he said. "There is no emergency, the nurse said, but they have had another telegraph message from the same people who sent the previous wire, so they want us to come over as soon as we can conveniently. Have you anything else to ask me, or to tell me?"

Gives Notes to Spencer
"Only one thing," I told him, taking from my bag the stenographic notes which the state trooper had given me, and handing them to him. On the way down the state trooper, under pretense of doing some work of his own, took stenographic notes of the conversation among the gangsters."

"This may prove invaluable," he said, putting the notes carefully away. "And now I must leave. After asking one more favor, May I send Ronald over here while you eat your dinner?"

Of course, I answered, "I shall be glad to have him. And I believe it would be a good idea to take him with us to the Underwoods, if you approve."

"That is a matter for your decision," he said.

He left before I could frame an answer, and when he came back a little while later he ushered in not only Ronald but Gus, with my dinner.

Then they left and I dined. Ronald already had eaten with my father. When I had finished I made him drink a cup of coffee with me, then spoke abruptly:

"Ronald, in a few minutes my father and I are going over to the Underwoods. I think you would better come along with us."

"Yes, I'd love to come," he said earnestly, and I saw that the about the age of fifty."

The victim nearly always can tell when he is going to have a headache, so the admonition to stop water drinking can be obeyed in most instances early enough to do some good. While there are a number of different remedies which may help, such as the recently introduced ergotamine, there is no 100 per cent relief that works in all cases.

The cause of the disease is probably some upset in the chemistry of the body and it may very well be that a change in water balance could bring on the attacks. At any rate, abstinence from water can't do anybody any harm and I bring this experience forward for what it is worth.

prospect of going to the home of Marion's mother and stepfather had given a distinct fillip to his spirits. That lasted until we had traveled to the Underwood home in the armored car and been admitted by Miss Whitlock.

I had no time to give him then, however, for I was wild to get upstairs and find out what the wire to Lillian had been.

Restaurant Date Postponed
"The message was signed 'the same as the other,' Lillian said. 'It simply said 'Plan changed.'"

she went on. "Meeting at restaurant scheduled exactly two weeks later, same place, same costume. Oh, what does it mean? That we shall know nothing for two weeks?"

"That doesn't follow at all," my father said. "Lillian may be back with you in two weeks, although I am not optimistic on that point. But at least this means that she is in no immediate danger. Something evidently has come up to disarrange their plans; perhaps what happened today."

He then told them swiftly of my adventures of the day, and of the course of Jack Bickett, assuring them that the gangsters knew nothing of Bickett's return or whereabouts, and that until they did they would hold Marion safely as a hostage.

When he had finished I saw him exchange quick, significant glances with Harry Underwood behind Lillian's back. Then he said blandly:

"Margaret, I wish you and Lillian would go somewhere and gossip for a bit. I have some things to talk over with Harry. If Miss Whitlock will permit me."

"If you don't talk too long," the nurse said firmly. Then Lillian and I went into her sitting room, and feeling that I needed to use the element of surprise, I spoke quickly:

"Lillian, dear girl, I must tell you now of someone who is most anxious to see you, someone who loves Marion very much, who is working hand in glove with my father to try to solve this mystery."
